Open-door Session
Agenda Item

Action

- (a) technology innovation was encouraged among teaching staff and students; some of the advanced tools/equipment were invented by the members of the College;
- (b) the teaching staff were well recognised / had won various awards in world-class competitions; and the College adopted the “learning through participating in competitions” teaching model; and
- (c) the overall quality of the training programmes was high.

MYWW was of the view that the exchange between the Mainland institutions and the CIC teaching staff would be beneficial to the optimisation of the Hong Kong Institute of Construction’s (HKIC) programmes design and teaching methods. The HKIC would continuously review and seek improvement in its programmes design and teaching methods.
