2025 Legislative Council General Election to be held on 7 December
The Construction Industry Council Urges the Industry to Vote

Hong Kong • 23 October 2025 – The eighth Legislative Council General Election has been kicked off today. The nomination period will run from 24 October to 6 November 2025 and polling will take place on 7 December 2025. The Construction Industry Council (CIC) urges members of the industry to cast their vote on 7 December.

As a vital bridge between the government and the industry, the CIC promotes and adopts innovative construction to transform Hong Kong into a more liveable and sustainable city. The Legislative Council plays a key role in shaping policies related to the construction sector, encompassing land planning, housing supply and green building initiatives. As the contribution and participation of the construction industry is crucial in the implementation of these policies, we call upon all eligible voters of the construction industry, professionals and industry practitioners to cast their vote on polling day. It is only with action that we can build a better Hong Kong.
